Administrative History

Circumference was founded at Loyola University Chicago in 1958 as the Women's Leadership Honor Society of Loyola. The name was later changed to Circumference to reflect that the members of the Honor Society were well-rounded. Members were required to be officers in at least two other organizations on campus and receive faculty recommendations.

Kappa Delta Epsilon was founded as an honorary educational fraternity in 1933. Loyola's chapter, Beta Gamma, was chartered in 1968.

Both of these organizations are no longer active at Loyola.

Scope and Content

The Circumference and Kappa Delta Epsilon records consist of .75 linear feet spanning the years 1952-1973 (bulk 1958-1973) and include constitutions, histories, financial reports, correspondence, membership lists, newsletters, minutes, and induction instructions.
