Administrative History

The Graduate School was established at Loyola University in 1925 to offer higher educational and research opportunities to students beyond the baccalaureate degree offered by the College of Arts and Sciences. The dean of the Graduate School creates and implements policies for the academic departments that are part of the Graduate School.

Dr. Paul Kiniery was appointed to the History department faculty as an assistant professor in 1929. He taught in the department until his retirement in 1970, having achieved the rank of professor in 1936. From 1931 through 1968 Dr. Kiniery served as the assistant dean of the Graduate School. He served on a number of committees including the commencement committee, grading committee, and Board of Graduate Studies. He was also the advisor to numerous graduate students.
