Administrative History

The Society of the Sigma Xi is a scientific research society founded in 1886 at Cornell University. Presently, the society has over 500 chapters, both in the United States and internationally. Loyola University Chicago's chapter was installed in 1954, but has been inactive since 1982. During its active period, Loyola's chapter included professors and graduates from the Dental School and Stritch School of Medicine. The chapter also hosted guest lecturers for yearly lecture tours, and sent representatives to attend the annual Sigma Xi meeting.

Scope and Content

The Loyola Sigma Xi chapter records consist of 2.7 linear feet (2.41 cubic feet), covering 1949-1975. These records include administrative announcements and correspondence, treasurer's reports, membership rosters, applications, annual meeting reports, and chapter petitions from various universities.
